Soviet Armies Capture Industrial City of Zaporozhe

Nazi Occupation Of the Crimea Is Imperiled by Red Soldiers Advance

Soviet Army Breaks Desperate Enemy Resistance To Take Important Transport Junction

By JUDSON O'QUINN

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Red army captured the Dnieper river bend stronghold of Zaporozhe yesterday, sealed off Melitopol for early conquest and cut its railway link with the Crimea, and in a new breakthrough north of Kiev smashed three German divisions. Moscow announced early today.

The fall of the East bank industrial citadel of Zaporozhe opened the way for a Soviet landslide southward into the Crimea where 100,000 German troops risk encirclement. Front dispatches said Soviet units already were pursuing German remnants from the broken Zaporozhe-Melitopol line.

Nearly 10,000 Germans were slain as the Russians overwhelmed Zaporozhe's desperate Nazi garrison, and fought their way toward early triumphs at Kiev on the Middle Dnieper, and Gomel in White Russia.

Germans Abandon Equipment

Huge quantities of equipment were declared to have been abandoned by the Germans around Zaporozhe and inside that city which is near the site of the giant Dnieper dam. Sixty-five miles to the south Russian troops had isolated German troops clinging to the roofs and entrenched in cellars inside Melitopol after cutting them off from the Crimea by snapping the main railway into the peninsula at two points. The Soviet daily communiqué disclosed.

Fighting their way over heaps of German dead, the Russians also were closing in on Kiev on the west bank of the Middle Dnieper from their bridgeheads established north and south of the capital, said the bulletin, recorded by the Soviet Monitor. Front dispatches said the Russians were smashing ahead in a furious effort to take Kiev before German dynamite bombs had completed the wrecking of the city, already in flames. Gomel, in Lower White Russia, also appeared to be on the verge of falling to the Russians, who had crossed the Sosz river above and below the city and now are attacking its gates. Gomel also was re-

Strict Manpower Regulations Go In Effect Today

Joe Doaks Will Find It Harder To Change Jobs in Future

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The nation officially goes under stricter manpower regulations tomorrow and Joe Doaks will find it harder to change jobs unless he is increasing his usefulness in the war effort.

Regulations designated "minimum provisions" and giving the United States Employment Service tighter control over migration and yes or no control over hiring of workers in "critical" occupations now will apply uniformly to all areas.

Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt, in a statement, stressed that the minimum provisions do not mean control by the employment service over all hiring, but said that the door is open for adoption of such a system, or modification thereof, in areas which need tighter controls.

The minimum provisions, now universally applicable, include: 1. A worker who leaves an "essential" or "locally-needed" activity may not take another job within sixty days unless it would "aid in the effective prosecution of the war." This condition will not be considered fulfilled unless the new job is important to the war and unless the worker has either a statement of availability from the previous employer or the consent of the user.

2. A worker deserves such a

Two American Destroyers Lost In Mediterranean

Bristol and Buck Sink as Result of Under Water Explosion, Navy Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The two-year-old destroyer Bristol and the slightly older destroyer Buck were lost this week in the Mediterranean, the navy announced today in report telling also of a fruitless Japanese bombing raid on Attu in the Aleutians.

Complete casualty reports from the destroyers have not been received.

Navy officials said the casualties aboard the Bristol were "moderate" and the Buck casualties "somewhat heavier."

The Japanese bombers, raiding Attu for the first time since the island was wrested from the enemy more than four months ago, were driven off without damaging the air field from which American planes have flown out to pound the enemy's big North Pacific base at Paramushir.

The navy provided little details of the ineffectual raid: Ten bombers flew high over Massacre bay on Attu island. American fighter planes sped up to intercept them and they dropped their bombs without causing any damage. There were no losses of American planes nor were any Japanese bombers shot down.

The loss of the two destroyers in the Mediterranean, as the result of underwater explosions, brought to 122 the number of naval vessels announced as lost since the war began. They could have been sunk by mines or torpedoes.

The Buck, commanded by Lt. Comm. Millard J. Klein of Long Beach, Calif., went down off Salerno on October 9. She was a 1,500-ton vessel, put into service in May 1940. Her skipper is listed as missing in action.

The Bristol, commanded by Lt. Com. John A. Glick, Richmond, N. H., commanded the 1,790-ton Bristol sunk yesterday in the Mediterranean. Just where the Bristol went down was not disclosed, nor has the navy received word as to the casualty status of her commander. The Bristol entered service in October, 1941.

PUBLISHERS, News Guild To Debate WLB's "Union Security" Policy

Question Is Whether Freedom of Press Would Be Impaired

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The question whether the freedom of the press would be impaired by granting "union security" clauses to the American Newspaper Guild will be argued before the War Labor Board at a hearing tomorrow, called at the request of a group of publishers.

In a letter to the publishers and guild officials, the WLB said it does not desire to hear discussions tomorrow on its general policy regarding union security or on specific cases now pending before the WLB newspaper panel.

American Planes Bag Dozen Zeros In Bougainville Airdrome Attack

Over 100 Bombers and Fighters Raid Kahili, Which Bars Progress of Drive on Rabaul

Germans' First Natural Defense Line before Rome Smashed at Several Points on River

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, ALGERIA, Oct. 14 (AP)—In a new raid on Kahili, Japan's chief airdrome on the last important enemy Solomons holding of Bougainville, American planes have downed twelve Zeros in sky battles.

This announcement in today's communiqué added to the latest bad news of enemy planes there. Yesterday's communiqué had reported the downing of twenty-one Japanese aircraft in the Bougainville sector. In the new raid, more than 100 American bombers and fighters attacked Kahili, which is near Buin on South Bougainville.

Mitchell medium bombers swept above Bougainville and in attacks on shipping are believed to have sunk two enemy cargo vessels.

The Japanese airforce made raids on Allied New Guinea positions at Morobe and Finschhafen.

Jap Raids Harmless

The raids were characterized as harmless.

The Kahili airdrome is the biggest air base barring the northward progress of the Allies up the Solomons toward Rabaul, the enemy's New Britain fortress which on Tuesday was hit by a 350-ton bombing attack.

The raid on Kahili reported in today's communiqué occurred on Monday just prior to the assault on Rabaul.

The latest Kahili raid was executed in daylight by Liberators, Avenger torpedo bombers and Dauntless divebombers. Fire visible for thirty miles were started in the supply areas.

After shooting down twelve of the twenty-five interceptors, all the raiders got home, the communiqué said.

The ship attacked at most height by the Mitchell south of Buin passage were described as "two large enemy cargo vessels." Both were badly damaged and are believed to have sunk.

The communiqué also reported a successful raid by medium and heavy bombers at night on Japan's Penfao airdrome near Koepang on Dutch Timor, 500 miles northwest of Australia.

Tuesday's raid on Rabaul was of such magnitude that it was adjudged the possible turning point in the South Pacific war.

In one gigantic aerial stroke on Tuesday that mustered every appropriate plane, the enemy received a "crushing and decisive blow at a most vital point," said General Douglas MacArthur.

"It marks the turning point in the war in the South Pacific," jubilantly declared Lt. Gen. George C. Kennedy, air force command.

Nazis' Volturno River Line Gives Way under Heavy Allied Assault

Over 100 Bombers and Fighters Raid Kahili, Which Bars Progress of Drive on Rabaul

Germans' First Natural Defense Line before Rome Smashed at Several Points on River

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, ALGERIA, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Germans' first natural defense line before Rome—the steep-banked Volturno river—has been smashed by the Fifth Army at several points near Capua in a furious night assault in which Allied engineers bridged the stream under withering German fire. Allied headquarters announced today.

American and British infantry and armored forces, including tanks, stormed across the river in darkness yesterday after having repelled a futile Nazi assault on Capua, and today were fighting fiercely to expand their bridgeheads. So murderous was the aerial cover given Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's attacking troops that German infantry was pinned down to its defensive positions north of the Volturno and not a single Nazi tank was able to join the battle.

Central Solomons Campaign Ends in Allied Victory

Japanese Fall Prey to Pincers Movement; Resistance Ceases

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Thursday, Oct. 14—(P)—The Central Solomons campaign is at an end—a complete Allied victory.

On Vella Lavella Island, where the Japanese fell prey to a pincers movement of Americans and New Zealanders, all organized resistance has ceased, a communiqué reports.

Two hundred dead were found in the Northwest coastal sector.

The Japanese navy on Oct. 6 made a frantic bid to rescue these remnants but was intercepted northwest of Vella Lavella by an American destroyer group which sank an enemy light cruiser and two to three destroyers. The rest of the units, including barges brought to evacuate the troops, abandoned the rescue attempt and fled.

"The entire New Georgia group of islands now is in our hands," the communiqué said.

Reedova was the first to fall in the offensive which opened June 30. By Aug. 8, the Japanese had been routed from the Munda airfield on New Georgia after bitter fighting.

In mid-August American troops made a seaborne landing on Vella Lavella, thus bypassing Japanese on Kolombangara.

Recently, at a cost of thousands of soldiers battered by Naval guns and plane bombs when caught on evacuation barges, the Japanese pulled out of Kolombangara, taking their surviving troops to Choiseul.

The important holdings left to the Japanese in the Solomons are Choiseul, believed lightly manned. Bougainville, where the bulk of the enemy in those islands is based, and Buka, a small island above Bougainville.

German Armies In Russia and Italy Retreating

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

A month short of the twenty-fifth anniversary of German surrender in the World war, Nazi armies in Russia and in Italy appear doomed to renew their current backward marches, stalked by disaster perils.

In Italy, the Volturno-Biferno front is crumbling to its collapse under combined Fifth and Eighth army flanking and frontal Allied attacks. The roads to Rome are being forced hour by hour. It is questionable even now whether the enemy stand north of the punctured and outflanked Volturno line is more than strong rear-guard action to facilitate escape of the main Nazi forces.

Russian troops battling at Melitopol, south of the great bend of the Dnieper, meanwhile are within less than 100 miles of the only remaining Nazi escape route from the Crimea. No formidable natural obstacle remains to impede a quick march to Perekop that would make the Crimea a deadly trap for invaders caught within it.

Nazi Situation Critical
That the Nazi situation in the South is critical cannot be doubted. Russian penetration to the head of the Perekop Isthmus connection with the Crimea must inevitably also force evacuation of the whole of the Dnieper plateau within the river bend. It would be vulnerable from the South as well as from the North and East.

Russian bridgeheads on the right bank below Kiev and east of Kremenchuk already menace the main supply route for all Nazi forces in the bend, the Bel Tersarkov-Dnepropetrovsk railway. It seems impossible that the German high command has not already begun a withdrawal from both the Crimea and the Dnieper plateau to add another chapter of defeat to the grim story everywhere unfolding for the German public.

Allied seizure of the vital Vinchaitovo communications hinge in the center of the whole Volturno-Biferno line in Italy is reported from Nazi-controlled sources in France but unconfirmed as yet. There is no doubt, however, that converging Fifth and Eighth army columns were within striking distance of the road junction yesterday (Thursday) and had not met sufficient resistance to indicate a Nazi die-hard stand in its defense.

Germans Cannot Hold
That tends to make Fifth army crossing of the Lower Volturno both east and west of the main road crossing at Capua look like entrainment moves rather than frontal attacks. Fanned out to left and right from those hard-won trans-Volturno bridgeheads, General Clark's men would threaten to fold up the Nazis just north of the river against the sea on one side and against the Volturno itself on the other.

The fight along the Volturno-Calore-Biferno front has gone far enough to make it crystal clear that the Nazi command cannot hold any positions across the Italian peninsula below the Etruscan or Po potential main defense points without bringing into action more troops than have yet been engaged to halt or slow up the Allied advance. Not more than seven of the reputed twenty to twenty-five Nazi divisions in Italy have been engaged so far.

A Highway Policy Without a Change

INCLUDED in the last weekly hand-out prepared in the governor's offices at Annapolis for use of the weekly newspapers of the state, is a fetching article, well-prepared with headlines and all, to the effect that plans for construction, totaling $38,000,000 for the postwar improvement of Maryland highways are under way and that they will be ready "for immediate attention whenever the war ends."

The governor and his advisers are to be commended for this foresight in looking to the needs of highway construction for the postwar period, when the neglect of our highways forced by the war effort will have to be taken up and as many jobs for returning soldiers and sailors can be provided as possible. The need for taking up employment slack is stressed in the report.

The $38,000,000 of construction outlined is to be a part of a total $50,000,000 road and bridge program, the governor is reported as declaring, "which is being prepared to give recognition to the highway needs of every section of the state."

Herein is indicated a radical change of policy which the counties of Maryland will heartily welcome, if true. But the report states that but $10,000,000 of the program is to go for county road improvements—only one-fifth of the total for half the population of the state. The major projects are for the immediate Baltimore area.

A change of highway construction policy with respect to recognition of other sections of the state is certainly in order. The important Western Maryland territory has been grossly, even scandalously and apparently deliberately, neglected in this work for a number of years. A little road oiling has been done here and there during that time but that has been all. No appreciable road construction was authorized after the Nice administration went out, during which several long-needed projects were authorized and only partly completed within the time allowed, through the vigorous insistence of J. Glenn Beall, now representative and then member and later chairman of the State Roads commission.

Of course, the war effort stopped road as well as other construction not directly concerned with it. But until stoppage was forced, Western Maryland and several other counties of the state were almost completely ignored in the allotment of highway improvement. Yes, a change of highway construction policy would be welcome; but even the well-dressed handouts from the governor's offices do not lend much encouragement for that desirable end.

Looting of Rome A German Natural

THE REPORT that the Germans are engaged in the systematic sacking of art galleries, libraries and museums in Rome comes via several routes and confirmation is unnecessary. The propensity of the Germans for looting is too well known. They did it in the last war and they have done it in this war—only on a scale that dwarfs all previous accomplishments of the sort.

In fact, so brazen is the attitude of the leaders of the Reich that it would occasion little surprise if the plundering of Rome were confirmed from Berlin in some specious Goebbelian pronouncement attempting to justify the deed by reaffirming the we-own-the-earth philosophy of the Nazi party.

But plausible as Dr. Goebbels can be upon occasion, there is no argument he can use that can even come close to excusing the perpetration of German vandalism upon the treasures of Rome. Rome is not only the capital of Italy and the seat of the Catholic church—it is a monument to European civilization. Much of the world's history stems from Rome, and the world is vitally interested in the preservation of its treasures as priceless milestones of the progress of mankind (some of it, anyway) upward from the age of barbarism and savagery.

The preservation of those treasures does not lie in their removal to Germany. They are safer in Rome. Recent developments indicate that the Germans do not intend to try to hold Rome against an Allied siege, and there is reason to believe that the Allies would try to bypass it rather than besiege it. The only danger, then, to the treasures of Rome comes from the Germans themselves. The only explanation for their removal lies in the arrogant acquisitiveness of the Germans for anything of value and a possible futile hope of using them for bargaining purposes.

No matter who gave the orders, the looting of Rome will remain just one more immortal stain on the German nation. The world will remember that it was done, not by Nazis, but by Germans.

The First Senate Step Toward Collaboration

THE RESOLUTION on world peace drafted by the Senate sub-committee of its Foreign Relations committee, is significant for two things.

One is that, as in the Fulbright resolution adopted by the House, there is specific indication that collaboration by this nation must be done "through its constitutional processes." Ordinarily that would be superfluous, but today it is not for the reason that some definite stand and safeguard must be provided against the tricky over-riding of actual treaties under the guise of "agreements," of which this administration has been guilty.

Another is that this nation "join with free and sovereign nations in the establishment and maintenance of international authority with power to prevent aggression and to preserve the peace of the world." "Join" might be interpreted by some to indicate that there could be some yielding of sovereignty by the nations so joining. Yet the words "in the establishment and maintenance" would seem to indicate that sovereignty was not to be surrendered. That is to say, the nations would still be "free and sovereign" in the maintenance of the new order.

It is discreet enough to be sure; yet possibly some further yet simple clarification may be needed, especially with respect to the words "with power," although this may have to rest upon victory circumstances and probably is sufficient for the time being. The resolution is yet to be acted upon by the whole committee and by the Senate. There will be thorough debate upon any further definitions, which is as it should be on so grave a subject.

Russia's Course Is Clarified

DECLARATION of war against Germany, its former ally, by Italy was not unexpected. Perhaps it is of more significance in its moral prestige than otherwise as, excepting for its remnant of a navy, the military weight for the Allies cannot be great.

But the really significant development was the fact that Italy came in as a co-belligerent with the United States, Great Britain and Russia; and that Premier Stalin accepted its co-belligerency along with the declaration of recognition of the right of the Italian peoples to choose their own government after the end of the war under constitutional processes.

This removes such doubts as have been entertained with respect to the alliance of Russia with the United Nations and especially the attitude of Russia on political considerations that may be presented in the postwar period. The joint declaration by the three governments represents an excellent bit of war diplomacy.

The OPA regulation that wholesalers must affix labels showing the ingredients of frankfurters, sausages and bologna is another type of public education that will be followed with interest.

Suggested titles for Mussolini's autobiography, if any: "Memoirs of a Phoney" or "I Was Forever Blowing Bubbles."

Speaking of forgotten songs, whatever became of that 1940 German war ditty, "We Sail against England?"

Apology to Autumn

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Each year in the California autumn I used to make a pilgrimage.

This year I did not do it, although I thought of it often, and now I feel as though I had cheated myself, as if I had lost something I might never regain.

Each year the grape country of California is a blaze of color in the fall. The green of the leaves in the vineyards is gone, changed to scarlet and yellow and red. The brown of the vines shows here and there, and lingering clusters of grapes—red and purple and green—are everywhere. The brilliant forces of the vineyards march up hill and down and their barges stir the heart.

In the Valley of the Moon, the little hills roll gallantly by, their shadows are magnificent in warm blues and deep purples and comforting greens. And when the sun sets or the moon rises, earth has no spectacle more sweetly fair.

There's a road that leaves this valley and climbs the hills and goes down to the foot of Mt. Saint Helena where R. L. Stevenson lived for a summer. And along this road the madrona salutes the passing year, and of all the trees that people the forest, there is none more lovely than the madrona in the heart of the autumn. The quivering aspen, the dignified oak, the glowing maple, the splendidly naked sycamore—none can compare in this one rich week when the clusters of madrona berries droop graciously down and a poet, seeing the red bark of the trees and the red berries with the orange glow upon them, would whisper to himself, "Stay moment, thou art so fair!"—and would sigh because beauty will not linger.

All year I had planned to visit the Valley of the Moon, and to that hill road where the madronas are. But the autumn came and that beauty blazed forth in the hills and I did not go. Something else seemed more important. I did not feel like going that week; I would surely go "next week."

But I didn't go. I stayed in the city until the glory was past and the vineyards did not march so gloriously and the berries were not so fair. I have missed them for another year and now I must bear the pardon of autumn. I am down here with all the rest of us who trade the lovely for the cheap, the rarity for the commonplace, the pearls for the paste. I could have had something that would have lasted forever, and I wouldn't take it. . . . But Nature will be generous and give it back to me next year.

Political Dust Is Seen As Clouding British Situation

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—It is becoming more and more difficult to report accurately on the substance behind the current British-American discussions. A cloud of political dust is being swept higher and higher to obscure popular vision.

Churchill, for example, has characterized the plea of the five American senators for equal trade opportunities and defensive island bases as American "fighting" among politicians. His British press, however, has taken up the British cudgel, of which his pale words cast only a shadow.

The British papers say their nation is upset, seriously alarmed, feels "a body blow to Anglo-U.S. collaboration," sees "an isolationist uprising" in the United States.

This attitude is comparable only to that of the elder spinster relative in many a family. If you charge her with having taken some pennies from sonny's bank for ice cream or any other minor infraction, she pleads personal upset. Old ladies have for many years smothered all criticism by becoming alarmed at it.

Direct Answers, If Alarmed

If the spinster Britannic press were really alarmed about the state of Anglo-American relations, they would answer the five senators directly.

They would say, for instance, that the British labels were put on American canned goods to Turkey and elsewhere through over-exuberance of trade instinct which hereafter will be corrected. Or they would say the large accumulations of British oil were due to over-planning and that these now will be released.

Such response really would promote good will and cement Anglo-American relations.

Instead, the irony of the British position was painfully evident in the simultaneous London announcement of their acquisition of valuable Portuguese bases at the Azores—which they said they would let us use.

One Phase Corrected

Mr. Roosevelt's handling of the same matter was a bit different. While laughing at the five senators as fellow travelers (presumably of isolationists), his Mr. Ickes announced a reorganization of the foreign oil distribution bureau apparently to correct one phase of their complaint.

Behind Mr. Roosevelt's assumed attitude evidently is the fear that the senators' report will be used against him politically, will furnish Republican propaganda.

His men on Capitol Hill worked ardently on the committeemen following their return. Senator Mead, closest to the White House, came at least half-way around and seemed to apologize for the committee, but made it clear at the same time that, while they had found many good factors abroad, they had found more situations which were displeasing and unsatisfactory.

At any rate, the three Democrats among the five senators, have been as insistent in their views as the Republicans, and all are unanimous upon the basic points—namely, that we must not let the British put it over on us in reselling our goods, that we must look out for trade, air and military bases around the world for postwar.

Change Likely Anyway

The Churchill and Roosevelt complaints may, therefore, play into the hands of isolationists and Republicans, by making an issue out of what could have been accepted as a wise recommendation for an alteration in American policy.

No doubt Mr. Roosevelt will make the change of policy anyway. He sometimes likes to follow critical advice even while spoofing it.

In any event, neither these leaders nor the British press may be able to make any headway against the Senate on their present ill-chosen ground.

Senatorial opinion is firming for American acquisition of bases and protection of American lend-lease interests. No matter how much dust flies, this determination is not likely to be disturbed.

The disputed Russian base phase is another matter. Only Rep. R. L. Stevenson of the Senate Lodge estimated 1,000,000 American lives could be saved if Russia would give us air bases to attack Japan. The Russian position is generally appreciated and understood here.

Most authorities expect Russia will declare war on Japan as soon as the Germans are beaten.

The Russians are natural enemies of the Japs, and will want expansion of Russian communist influence in Asia.

Also, Democratic Senator Chandler is alone among the five in his opinion that the dispute is not so serious as the British press makes it out to be.

IN RADIO WARFARE

GOING OVERSEAS on a special assignment for OWI, William S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, will help in the radio phase of psychological warfare in the Mediterranean area. He will be attached to the army's psychological warfare branch at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters.

Dr. Egloff estimates that the diatoms in the Monterey shale of the Santa Maria, California, oil fields would alone produce two billion barrels of oil by an ether-process extraction—and these represent only one limited area where diatoms are plentiful.

From the foregoing we may conclude that Nature is producing oil at a faster rate than gas pressure or pump strokes can bring it to the earth's surface, writer Dr. Egloff, so we may take heart for the future.

Naval Work Is Seen As Giving Better Perspective of Three Arms Branches

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Those heroic men of the British navy who with their midget submarines crippled the big battleship Tirpitz, pride of the German navy, while she lay in a Norwegian harbor are entitled to special tribute from the United States. For these venturesome sailors did something very substantial by their exploit to help America's war against Japan.

During the last several months it has been an open secret that our navy men wondered why the Royal Air Force did not bomb the German warships lying in Norwegian waters. With all the talk about the usefulness of air power, it was believed that no more strategic target was available for air bombardment which could affect the plans of both the British and American navies. It is conceivable that American officials even produced their London friends in the admiralty about it. But nothing happened. One reason may have been the fact that in Britain the air force is independent of the navy and can select its own targets—something that has been little understood by the advocates of a separate air force for America.

Done by the Navy

It finally was not the Royal Air Force which crippled the Tirpitz but the British navy, which used the most hazardous method imaginable—an attack by what were virtually suicide crews in midget submarines. Reports indicate the attack was successful in inflicting such extensive damage as to render the Tirpitz harmless to Atlantic traffic for many months to come.

The British Navy, as well as the American navy, has been keeping certain groups of warships tied up in the Atlantic with patrol duties fearful of the emergence of the Tirpitz. This situation can be relieved now and the relief comes at a time when more and more British and American naval vessels are needed for the operations in the Bay of Bengal against Burma and for action against the Japanese in the Central Pacific.

Incidentally, the perspective of all nations is beginning to be better balanced as between air power and land power. Thoughtful supporters of each service never claimed for any one instrument of warfare complete independence of any other but a substantial interdependence. The extremists did.

Traditional Overcome

Air power, of course, has had hard sledding against traditional points of view but air power today has

Delinquents In Draft Will Be Classed 1-A

Selective Service Will Crack Down on Men Who Forget

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — Draft-age men who haven't kept up with their Selective Service obligations — including the fellow who forgot to notify his local board of a change of address — are to be passed into Class 1-A after Nov. 1 and ordered to report for induction. Selective Service, announcing this today, said delinquents who do not respond to such orders will be reported for prosecution which could lead to a sentence of five years in prison, $10,000 fine or both.

95,000 Cases Pending

Most men become delinquent for failure to do one of the following: Register, return a completed questionnaire within ten days, fill questionnaires truthfully, keep the local board advised of an address where men always will reach the registrant, report a change of status which would affect classification, report for physical examination, or report for induction.

By Sept. 1 about 95,000 delinquency cases were pending, about half of which had been reported to United States attorneys.

Selective Service said manpower demands and fairness to men in the armed forces make it impossible to put up even with carelessness any longer.

When classifying delinquents into local boards are to disregard their order numbers or occupational dependency status. However, the man so classified may request a personal appearance before his local board or reopening of the case, or may appeal.

May Lose Appeal Rights

But if he is found to have become delinquent knowingly, he loses appeal rights and his claims to deferment on occupational or other grounds will be ignored.

Between now and the Nov. 1 deadline, it is suggested, any man who knows he is delinquent or who thinks he may be should consult his local board, by letter if he cannot appear in person. If he does not know the address of his local board, he should go to a board where he is living.

So broad was the language of the ban that it would prevent not only the CCC but "any other government agency" from using its funds for subsidies on agriculture products, including milk and live-stock.

Rep. Patman (D-Tex) flatly declared the bill was a "break-the-line, inflation, bill" which "will lose the war on the domestic front" and, estimated that it would cost the American consumers annually between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000. He predicted that President Roosevelt would veto the measure if it is passed by Congress.

He made public a letter from War Food Administration Marvin Jones, outlining the WFA objections to the prohibition. In it, Jones said the restriction would force increases in maximum prices by as much as five cents a pound on butter, four cents on cheese, $1.20 a hundredweight on some varieties of dry beans and increases on canned vegetables to reflect a rise of twenty-five to fifty per cent in the cost of raw materials.

The heavy assault was the first since the October 10 attack on the ancient city of Muenster, forty miles inside Germany, which climaxed three straight days on one of the war's most intensive bombardment campaigns including the record long-distance smash of Oct. 9 against Eastern Germany, Poland and East Prussia.

signature nor any action by the House.

While the Fulbright and Connally resolutions are similar in many respects, sharp eyed legislators find many differences in them that are bound to leave the diplomats of other nations wondering what it is all about.

For instance, the Fulbright proposal favors "appropriate international machinery" to keep the peace. Your questions can buy you a dozen different interpretations in Congress of that phrase, ranging from advocacy of a world super state to support for an association of governments something like the league of nations and possibly more effective.

The Connally resolution proposes that the United States join "free and sovereign nations" to establish "international authority" to maintain peace. Some opponents see the boogey man of a world police force in this, some supporters say no such organization possibly could be involved.

The Connally proposal goes further than that of the House in demanding "complete victory" over the Axis, although its sponsors were chary about defining that term. It urges also that this country "cooperate with its comrades-in-arms" to obtain "a just and honorable peace." Does that mean Italy will share in the peace negotiations as a comrade-in-arms? There's no answer yet to that.

risks, and payroll taxes raised to bring in $5,300,000,000 additional revenue annually.

"If payroll taxes are increased," he added, "the income taxes should at that time be made substantially lower than I have suggested to avoid an excessive tax burden on the lower income groups."

The scheduled 100 per cent increase in social security taxes would yield an estimated $1,140,000,000 in 1944.

Within the Ways and Means committee, the trend appeared to be definitely toward a sales tax. There was talk of one of five per cent, with no exemptions, estimated to raise $5,000,000,000 a year.

Just before Clark's forces sprang forward yesterday morning, the Germans launched a sharp attack in the Capua area. Some detachments managed to cross the river and gain a brief foothold at the edges of the town, but they were annihilated.

The Germans even threw their carefully hoarded fighter plane strength into the struggle, but a flight of sixteen Messerschmitts was beaten off by Spitfires, which shot down two and damaged many more.

Allies Capture Guardia

The length of the line from the Mediterranean to the Adriatic was flamed into battle. Allied troops after a heavy fight northwest of Benevento captured the town of Guardia, four miles north of the Calore river and only nine miles east of the Upper Vulture.

Farther to the northeast the British and Canadians of the British Eighth Army pushed seven miles to occupy Gildone, which is only six miles from Campobasso, an important inland road junction.

In the most dramatic blow of the day's widespread air offensive, American medium bombers protected by Lightning fighters raided German-held Tirana, the capital of Albania, for the first time. They reported heavy destruction to a Nazi airbase there. Other bombers and fighters made smashing attacks on railway lines, communications and troops. They were unchallenged.

Tea Is Given For Miss Schloff

Mrs. Robert W. Work and the Girl Scout Out-door Activities committee entertained with a tea in honor of Miss Florence Ann Schloff, executive secretary, yesterday at the little house.

Miss Schloff, who has been with the local scouts for the past five years, will leave November 15 to accept a position with the Chicago Girl Scout Council.

In behalf of the group Mrs. Work presented Miss Schloff with a book on birds. Mrs. Walter Hindle presided at the tea table.

Preceding the tea a business meeting was held and Miss Schloff gave a detailed report on camp. Mrs. Hindle announced that some of the camp stamp money is at headquarters and asked that the children come and have their stamps redeemed. Mrs. Thomas Moore gave the financial report.

lations was the almost unbelievable loss in the operation of only five Allied planes. This one-sided result was obtained by the greatest fleet of fighters and bombers ever assembled in this area, composed largely of American planes.

The bold, daylight raid, a stunning surprise to the Japanese, expended 350 tons of explosives and more than a quarter of a million rounds of ammunition. MacArthur's communiqué gave these results.

Planes—the enemy lost 177, destroyed or damaged, or about sixty per cent of his air strength at Rabaul.

The program included a talk by Melvin Heiskell; a radio skit by Miss Peggie Lynch and Stewart Phillips; a quiz program by Mr. Cramer and several selections by an impromptu quartet composed of Douglas Bowie, Mr. Cramer, Mr. Heiskell and J. K. Snyder, with Peter Sevel at the piano; which also led the group singing. Peck Mills played several selections on the solo vox.

Installations—wharves and waterfront facilities left a burning mass of wreckage; buildings, radio facilities and many fuel and ammunition dumps demolished or heavily damaged; anti aircraft positions silenced and a motor transport pool wrecked.

Cards featured the entertainment during the evening and prizes were given to the ladies. Fifty-six guests attended, including eighteen representatives of the Cumberland club.

MT. PLEASANT CHURCH WILL HAVE PROMOTION AND RALLY DAY

A promotion and rally day program will be held in Mt. Pleasant church, October 17, for all classes of the church school.

The service will be held jointly with the church worship at 10:30 o'clock, preceded by the church school hour at 9:45 o'clock. Certificates of promotion will be presented by Walter J. Maxey, general superintendent. The Rev. Edwin Keener, pastor, will preach the sermon on "Rally day Emphasis."

Exercises, playlet and recitations will comprise part of the program with special music by the church school. The church will be decorated with autumn leaves and flowers.

Mrs. Amanda Wilson assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Smith, Mrs. Mabel Rose, Mrs. Oleda Drake and Mrs. Rhoda Clingerman are in charge of the program. Among those having prominent parts in the program are Janice Raines, David Smith, Lena Shanholz, Rhea Shanholz, Joan Minke, Glenda Lee Johnson, Earl Drake, Wilda Shade, Mervyn Rose, Helen Messick, Mary Ellen Springer, Leah Drake, Gene Smith, Alan Smith, Sherwood Rose and Osborne Ayers.

Receive $75,000
For Year in 1941

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Nine Marylanders received compensations for personal services in excess of $75,000 for the calendar year 1941 or fiscal years ending in 1942 according to Secretary Morgenthau, among them a Baltimorean who received a total of $134,177.97.

The Baltimorean who topped the list of Marylanders with the $134,177.97 was Charles B. Duncan, Sr. of the Hecht company, who reported $50,000 in salary and a bonus of $84,177.97.

The others whose compensation was made public by Morgenthau, their companies and their earnings, included:

Charles E. McManus, Crown Cork and Seal Company, $108,508.33, including a salary of $100,000, commissions of $8,333.33 and other compensation totaling $175.

William Montgomery, Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Company, $75,200, including salary of $75,000 and other compensation of $200.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just sit there doing nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. These are Nature's chief way of ridding the body of wastes. When the kidneys were out of the blood, they help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When 10 or 12 pints of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poison may be accumulating in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep, lack of energy, aching muscles, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache, and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with the kidneys. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Dean's Pill, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They'll happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Inventory on Draft
Status Is Released

MILES CITY, Mont., Oct. 14 (AP)—

Fifty-eight persons were injured today in the derailment of the Milwaukee road's East-bound passenger train, the Olympian.

Officials said the water-soaked roadbed evidently gave way under the weight of the locomotive.

Only five of the injured were listed as in serious condition.

Fifty three other passengers aboard when the eleven-car first section of the train plunged from the tracks at Paragon, eleven miles west of here, were treated for minor cuts and bruises and released from the hospital.

The locomotive, the baggage-express car, nine coaches, a dinner and one Pullman car left the rails.

From inventories made by all local boards during the last fifteen days of September, draft officials compiled statistics which also disclosed:

That 11.6 per cent of the registrants have occupational deferments.

That more than 25 per cent are in Class 3-A because of dependency.

That more than 15 per cent are deferred as physically, mentally or morally unfit.

That 5.3 per cent are awaiting induction.

The inventory broke the occupational deferments down into those with children and those without children, showing that of the 24.4 per cent in Class 2-A, 21 per cent were without children.

Approximately 6.1 per cent of the registrants in Class 2-B did not have children.

Draft officials said that the greater number of men who will go into 1-A and be ordered up for induction will be supplied from registrants now in Class 3-A.

Only 1,100 of 1 per cent of the state registrants were in Class 3-B, persons whose induction would cause extreme hardship on their dependents.

Censors Should Frame This Letter as Model

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Even the censor couldn't find anything objectionable in this letter from Pvt. Bill Copeland, marine at Camp Pendleton, Calif., to his parents here:

"I wish I could tell you what's been going on lately, but I can't. I don't know anything but what's been going on, and as I can't tell you that, well, I don't know anything new and can't tell you what I do know, so I guess I can't talk much. This is just to let you know I'm thinking of you.—Love, Bill."

M. P.'s Turn Cowboys In Impromptu Rodeo

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La. (AP)—The dignity of this camp's military police took a beating recently from five cows and a horse in an impromptu rodeo on the athletic field. The cows and the horse bobbed up on the athletic field and two MPs tried vainly to herd them off the green, using motorcycles in lieu of broncos. They threatened with their electric horns and the cows threatened with their own horns.

It took four military policemen and four motorcycles to clear the field.

Simulated Bombing
Raid Set for Today

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—Simulated bombing on Baltimore and Annapolis will climax the conference tomorrow of approximately 175 Maryland Council of Defense county representatives with national office of civilian defense officials. Navy planes will drop paper bags weighted with one ounce of sand on the state capitol and sixty-five air patrol planes will bomb Baltimore similarly.

Col. Henry S. Barrett, state commander of the United States Citizens Defense Corps and air raid director, said the daylight alert would be held tomorrow as scheduled even if unfavorable weather prevents the "bombings."

The public will be involved in the daylight raid for only ten minutes, he said, from 5:45 to 5:55 p.m. when traffic will stop, pedestrians will find shelter and all private and public vehicles will be emptied as during usual air alerts.

Film Magnate Received $949,765.84; Swebilius Is Second

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Louis B. Mayer, movie producer, drew the biggest pay check—$949,765.84—reported to the treasury for the calendar year 1941 or fiscal year ending in 1942.

The motion picture industry, as usual, furnished the lion's share of the personal service incomes above $75,000 shown in corporation income tax returns.

The list of such incomes made public by Secretary Morgenthau as required by law, included 922 names, 215 of them movie figures. Loew's, Inc., paid Mayer $157,500 salary and $792,265.84 in commissions for the fiscal year ended August 31, 1942. Second place in the listing went to a big-money newcomer, C. G. Swebilius, president of the Dixwell Corporation, Hamden, Conn. The management and engineering service firm paid him $631,809.16 salary for the year ending Nov. 30, 1941, and $499,148.11 for the next fiscal year. Swebilius also is vice-president of the war-expanded High Standard Manufacturing Corporation which he organized in 1926 to produce pistols, small tools, and similar articles. E. G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Company, was third with an income of $537,724—$357,524 in the form of a bonus—for 1941.

A larger payment—$588,423.15—was listed for Comedians Bud Abbott and Lou Costello. Jointly, they received a $224,458.32 salary and $363,964.83 "other compensation" from Universal Pictures for the fiscal year ending last October 31.

Largest individual salaries listed for film stars included the $300,000 paid Jeanette MacDonald and Bing Crosby by Loew's and Paramount, respectively; Gary Cooper's $299,177.84 from Samuel Goldwyn and Bob Hope's $294,166.67 from Paramount.

Others received larger aggregate amounts, however, notably Claudette Colbert's $390,000 from Paramount and Twentieth Century-Fox; Ginger Rogers's $355,000 from RKO-Radio and Twentieth Century; Cary

Grant's $351,562.50 from Columbia, RKO and Warner Brothers; and Charles Boyer's $350,000 from Paramount, Universal and Warners. In most cases the payments covered overlapping periods embracing more than twelve months.

Bette Davis received $252,333.33 from Warners; Jack Benny $250,000 from Twentieth Century and Warners; William Powell $242,500 from Loew's; Errol Flynn $240,000 from Warners; Preston Sturges $230,841.68 from Paramount.

Extension Agronomist Will Three OPA Positions
Conduct Third Fertilizing
Demonstration in County

Miller Brothers farm at Midland will be the scene of the third alfalfa fertilizing demonstration in Allegany county which will be conducted today by J. A. Magruder, extension agronomist, County Agent Ralph F. McHenry announced.

The demonstrations are being held to determine what is lacking in the soil in this area that results in a stunting of the growth of alfalfa and discoloration of the plants, McHenry said. By a series of plots in a certain area using potash, boron, phosphate and lime in varying combinations, the demonstrator will be able to tell what the lacking element is.

The condition is general throughout the state and Magruder conducted similar experiments Tuesday and Wednesday in Garrett county. The first two experiments were held on the farms of George Barton, in the Potomac river section, and W. E. Crabtree, local secretary, post office building.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Mac Ulrich, assistant superintendent of the municipal street cleaning department, told it on himself.

He became hungry and raided the refrigerator during the night. Noticing two bowls, he used the contents of one to make a sandwich. It tasted so good he made another. Next morning Mrs. Ulrich inquired if he knew anything about the missing food. He explained and said he was sorry.

"Oh, I don't mind if you don't," she said. "It just happens that you ate most of the dog's food."

Pullen Declares Teacher Shortage Will Get Worse

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP) — The resignations of 305 Maryland school teachers between June 1 and Oct. 1 this year has created a critical situation which Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., declared today "will doubtless be a great deal worse" in the future.

The state superintendent of schools commented, however, that the eventual outcome is beyond prediction and added:

"It is almost impossible to say how many vacancies there are among the 5,275 teaching jobs in the state, since the situation changes overnight."

"In some parts of the state classes are running with one teacher to as many as fifty to sixty children."

Pullen said that all but fifty or sixty of those who resigned in the four-month period joined the armed forces or took war jobs. These few merely shifted from the schools one county to those of another.

In Prince George's county, teacher resignations totaled 173 to put that county at the top of the hard-hit list; second was Montgomery county with eighty-two and third was Baltimore county with seventy-seven, the superintendent said.

Three hundred and fifty seven teachers in white high schools resigned; 329 in white elementary schools; seventy eight negro elementary schools; and forty one in negro high schools; he explained.

He added that the rate of teacher turnover increased enormously in the past few months and said that from June 1, 1942 to June 1, 1943 1,306 teachers resigned.

Neither Snow,
Nor Wind--!

RICHMOND, Va. (P)—A letter written July 21, 1930, by the late Virginia Governor John Garland Pollard was returning to the governor's office the other day "for better address."

For thirteen years the letter went undelivered. Yet it was directed to an address on Governor street in Richmond — only a few yards from the executive offices in the state capitol.

Pinball Machines Useful

RICHMOND, Va. (P)—Confiscated pinball machines in Richmond have been put into use. The machines are sent to the Citizens' Service Exchange. Metal parts are used in the shop, and the wood is used in making furniture.

Amateur Dog Trainer
Entertains Soldiers

NEW ORLEANS (P)—John T. Sullivan, 70, trained a couple of pouches and set out to entertain soldiers with a dog act.

No professional dog trainer, Sullivan simply polished up normal dog actions. Star of the show is Rosco, half collie, half German shepherd, who picks out his own ball and catches liners, grounders and high flies.

Rosco also can leap hurdles to catch a ball on the rebound or dig it out from beneath a stack of 300 pounds of boards, removing the boards one at a time.

The other half of the act is Jane, who jumps hurdles and specializes in fancy catches.

London Army Bouts
Barred to Public

LONDON (P)—There was such a rumpus over decisions the last time American and British army boxers tangled in public that the British Amateur Boxing Association has decided to bar civilians.

Future service shows will be strictly private military affairs between inter-unit or inter-battalion teams.

Nazi Tank Is Post Card

HUTCHINSON, Kas. (P)—Mrs. Carl V. Dahlberg visited the Kansas State fair and was surprised to see written on a captured German tank: "Carl V. Dahlberg." She assumes her husband, a sergeant in Egypt, wrote his name on the vehicle, never dreaming it would be exhibited as a war trophy in his old home town.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

"WHAT'S THE BIG idea?" inquired the youth in the boat of the girl dangling from the limb over the river.

"Don't ask question," said Brenda, trying not to sound too annoyed. "Do something."

"Sure!" The man leaped ashore and fastened the boat hurriedly and then caught Brenda about the waist. "Let go the limb," he said. "I've got you."

"I say you have," said Brenda with difficulty. "You needn't squeeze the life out of me."

The man put her down upon solid ground and eyed her with interest. "Gee!" he said.

"What's the matter?" Brenda wanted to know.

"You look like a girl I seen down to a Linville movie."

"I hope it was a girl you liked," said Brenda, brushing herself.

"Oh, sure I did. If I get money enough I'm going out to Hollywood to meet her."

Brenda smiled at him, saw that he wasn't more than 18, and had friendly eyes. "Will I do—until then?" she asked.

"Sure," said the young fellow. "What's your name?"

"Just call me Brenda. What's yours?"

"Zeb Rotiler."

"Hello, Zeb!" Brenda held out her hand.

"Hello, yourself," said Zeb. "Gee, I'm glad I came along when I did."

"So am I," said Brenda. "I couldn't have held on much longer." She remembered the picnic lunch. "As a reward for your bravery, you're to have some of my cake and sandwich. I've also a thermos of coffee."

"Thank you, ma'am," said Zeb. "But I ain't got much time."

"No time for a girl who reminds you of the one in the movies?" said Brenda. "Shame on you." She began to unpack the lunch. "Now this piece of cake is for you, and that sandwich. You can drink your coffee out of my one cup, and I'll use the cap on the thermos."

"Gee, that sandwich looks good," said Zeb. "And I sure am hungry. Aunt Freda didn't have time to fix me much breakfast. She overslept and had to hurry to get to the factory on time."

"Does she work there?" said Brenda.

"Yes'm. She's pantry woman. Nice job, too—and she's mighty good to me. She helped me buy that boat there."

"Dow you have a job, also?"

"No'm, but I'm going to start making money with my boat. I'm also learning how to operate a night school folks set up in Linville. She says maybe some day I'll be seeing you again, won't I?" said Brenda.

"Yes'm," said Zeb. "Maybe some day you'll take a ride with me."

"I'd love that," said Brenda.

"Make it real soon, won't you?"

"Yes'm," Zeb got to his feet, took a soiled handkerchief from his pocket and wiped his mouth.

"Thank you, ma'am, for the lunch. It sure was good."

"By the way," said Brenda, as she walked to the river's edge with the boy, "didn't I see you land your boat over at the Johnson farm one morning?"

"I'll be watching for you, Zeb," she said, as the boy stepped aboard.

"I reckon you did," said Zeb. "The men I'm hauling for sorta liked the place. They thought maybe they'd have their hunting lodge there."

"And changed their minds?"

Brenda watched Zeb until the boat, feeling a little ashamed of herself. He was such a kid—so friendly—and so easy. If he were being used by these men for some nefarious work, they certainly had not coached him very well.

"I'll be watching for you, Zeb," she said, as the boy stepped aboard.

She laughed. "Only next time I won't be hanging to a tree."

Zeb laughed also. "No'm, I reckon not," he said. "Only it was kinder exciting, rescuing you just like in the movies."

The boat drifted out into the stream. Zeb started the engine. He straightened up, waved his hand, and then steered out for the channel. Brenda waved back, suddenly feeling horribly depressed. She sensed something evil brewing, and hated to think of the boy Zeb being drawn into it. And the evil was very evident, she thought. Zeb's aunt in the factory . . . Otto also . . . and Otto seeing that the boy met the men who were supposed to be hunters and fishermen . . . Somehow it all tied up—made kind of pattern, a pattern that had something sinister about it.

Maryland-Owned Race Horse Wins Burch Memorial

Cape Cod, Ridden by Eddie Arcaro, Cops Pimlico Feature

DONALD SANDERS

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—Cape Cod, the somewhat erratic racer from the stables of G. C. Greer, won the ninth running of the W. P. Burch Memorial handicap at Pimlico today, marking the fourth triumph for a Maryland-owned horse in the five stakes already run during the four state tracks' consolidated meeting.

A crowd of 13,192 persons saw the five-year-old son of Bostonian charge through the stretch to win the $7,550 purse and boost his winnings for the year to $14,425 while accounting for his fourth victory in fifteen starts.

Arcaro Aboard Winner

Forced to go wide while running in second place as the field of twelve entered the stretch, Cape Cod and Jockey Eddie Arcaro sped down the straightaway to earn a two and a half length victory over Calumet Farm's Queen Es. In third place, another length and a half back came Howe stable's Cassis, while Longchamps' farm's Baby Dumpling was fourth.

The latter two were coupled in the wagering, both being trained by Preston Burch, son of the man for whom the race was named.

Cape Cod carried 115 pounds over the six furlongs in 1:12 which equalled the record for the stake traditionally run over the Bowie oval.

Sollure Tires

He returned $10.00, $5.40 and $3.40 for $2 at the mutuels.

The winner was third away from the gate, but soon moved up into the second spot behind H. Guy Edwards' Sollure, winner of the Capital handicap first division here on opening day.

Cape Cod dropped about a length behind Sollure's pace as they entered the far turn, but moved up and traded only slightly as he came into the stretch.

Queen Es came on gamely to win second money as the badly-tiring Sollure faltered and finished eighth, one and a half lengths and two geldings.

Other injured members of the Navy squad this season are Ed Elliott and Walt Schwartz.

Elliott, a right tackle, sustained injuries in pre-season practices, and Schwartz filled the spot against North Carolina Pre-Flight and Cornell.

Schwartz, in turn, was injured in the latter game, and Al Staubitz started last week in his place.

On the line, Eddie Mallon will replace Normas Geatz at center with Geatz moving to right end in place of Harry Ways. Carolin indicated that both Ingram and Tommy Geatz, the latter still nursing a knee injury, may see some service. Norman Geatz and Quarterback Joe Carter have been named co-captains for the contest.

Two Potomac Valley Conference games, both of them this afternoon, complete the district scholastic program for this week.

The Ridgeley High Blackhawks, tied with Moorefield and Romney for second place in the conference, will entertain a favored Keyser High Golden Tornado outfit, and Romney and Moorefield will tangle at the latter place. Keyser, with two victories, is setting the conference pace.

William "Huck" Miers, Piedmont high coach announced yesterday that his team will meet Rowlesburg (W. Va.) high gridders, coached by Homer Brooks, of Cumberland, next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Rowlesburg.

If Terry were hired to replace Durocher the astounding change in the Brooklyn setup would be obvious. Rickey and Terry, two stern, capable but subdued executives in place of MacPhail and Durocher, probably no less capable but a couple of roaring, chip-on-the-shoulder gents who had become something of a symbol of baseball as it is played along the Gowans, as they say. The contrast would be astonishing.

How Durocher will fare in his interview with Rickey concerning re-hiring is not known at this writing. If he doesn't fare so well, as it is sort of a half-face proposition, Terry is as good a guess as any as to the man who will boss the Dodgers on the field.

Even at that, there are certain details which would take a lot of working out between Terry and Rickey. One of the main ones would be salary, as Terry isn't a fellow to work for acrons and Rickey's disinclination to put out fat salaries to his hired help is but a fact.

We have an idea that if Terry did get the job he eventually would have the Dodgers right up there again, particularly if times returned to normal before too long and Rickey could get his scouting and farm systems operating. Terry is not noted as a developer of young talent, but he knows what to do with ball players on the field. Under Rickey's system the talent reports ready for duty, pre-seasoned in the minors. That combination should produce a winner.

In the backfield, Cobourn appears to have a fine prospect in Fullback Alex Boyle, 185-pound senior who featured with his line cracking against Charles Town. The other backfield starters are expected to be Ralph Powell, Lewis Lewis and Bob Coffman.

Martinsburg limited Charles Town, which had previously stopped a highly-regarded Romney high

Grid Game To Feature Maryland Homecoming

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 14 (AP)—The Old Liner-Pennsylvania State college football game and dedication of the large new armory will feature the University of Maryland's homecoming celebration Oct. 23. University officials also said today that the one-hundred and thirteenth chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, a social fraternity holding a membership of 58,000, would be installed on the Maryland campus over the weekend.

Six Middies Are On Casualty List

By W. CHASE IDOL, JR.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 14 (AP)—The injury jinx hovered over the navy football camp today, as Capt. John E. Whelchel, the Middies' head coach, reported that six of his varsity backs and linemen would not play in the game Saturday against the Penn State Nittany Lions.

Injured in the Duke game last week in Baltimore were Al Channell, left end and captain of the undefeated Tars, and backs Jim Pettit, Bob Jenkins and Bruce Smith. "That game against the Blue Devils last Saturday was the best, and most strenuous, test that Navy has had yet, and it showed up plenty of weak points—in the line and in the backfield," Whelchel declared.

"And meeting Duke may have cost us, temporarily, the services of four Middies. But we'll be able to field a team against Penn," he continued, "that won't make us look bad."

"In fact, we'll give them plenty of scrapping."

John Hansen, 180-pound end from South Orange, N. J., will be in the starting lineup in place of Channell, he said.

Other injured members of the Navy squad this season are Ed Elliott and Walt Schwartz.

Elliott, a right tackle, sustained injuries in pre-season practices, and Schwartz filled the spot against North Carolina Pre-Flight and Cornell.

Schwartz, in turn, was injured in the latter game, and Al Staubitz started last week in his place.

On the line, Eddie Mallon will replace Normas Geatz at center with Geatz moving to right end in place of Harry Ways. Carolin indicated that both Ingram and Tommy Geatz, the latter still nursing a knee injury, may see some service. Norman Geatz and Quarterback Joe Carter have been named co-captains for the contest.

Two Potomac Valley Conference games, both of them this afternoon, complete the district scholastic program for this week.

The Ridgeley High Blackhawks, tied with Moorefield and Romney for second place in the conference, will entertain a favored Keyser High Golden Tornado outfit, and Romney and Moorefield will tangle at the latter place. Keyser, with two victories, is setting the conference pace.

William "Huck" Miers, Piedmont high coach announced yesterday that his team will meet Rowlesburg (W. Va.) high gridders, coached by Homer Brooks, of Cumberland, next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Rowlesburg.

If Terry were hired to replace Durocher the astounding change in the Brooklyn setup would be obvious. Rickey and Terry, two stern, capable but subdued executives in place of MacPhail and Durocher, probably no less capable but a couple of roaring, chip-on-the-shoulder gents who had become something of a symbol of baseball as it is played along the Gowans, as they say. The contrast would be astonishing.

How Durocher will fare in his interview with Rickey concerning re-hiring is not known at this writing. If he doesn't fare so well, as it is sort of a half-face proposition, Terry is as good a guess as any as to the man who will boss the Dodgers on the field.

Even at that, there are certain details which would take a lot of working out between Terry and Rickey. One of the main ones would be salary, as Terry isn't a fellow to work for acrons and Rickey's disinclination to put out fat salaries to his hired help is but a fact.

We have an idea that if Terry did get the job he eventually would have the Dodgers right up there again, particularly if times returned to normal before too long and Rickey could get his scouting and farm systems operating. Terry is not noted as a developer of young talent, but he knows what to do with ball players on the field. Under Rickey's system the talent reports ready for duty, pre-seasoned in the minors. That combination should produce a winner.

In the backfield, Cobourn appears to have a fine prospect in Fullback Alex Boyle, 185-pound senior who featured with his line cracking against Charles Town. The other backfield starters are expected to be Ralph Powell, Lewis Lewis and Bob Coffman.

Terry in Dodger Uniform Would Be Odd Picture

Fans, However, Are Quick To Adopt Their Worst Enemy

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—It would be funny, at that, to have Bill Terry come back to the major leagues as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, the team he once played in the National League he once questioned.

The last time we saw Terry in Brooklyn was about three years ago and he was standing in the third base coaching box in a New York Giant uniform. The Dodger fans were having a field day at his expense and the back of his neck was a study in technicolor, as even a plaster statue couldn't ignore some of the remarks aimed in his direction.

Baseball is a funny business, though, and the fans quickly adopt their worst enemy if by chance it happens to be swapped around until he is wearing the uniform of their team. There is no quicker way for a no-good bum to become a hero in a certain park than by switching attire.

We have an idea that if Terry were chosen to succeed Leo Durocher in Brooklyn he would be accepted readily by the Dodger fans, particularly if he gave them a team in which they could take pride, as the average fan in Brooklyn or Cincinnati or Philadelphia or anywhere isn't as much interested in the personality of manager as in the results he gets.

It would be practically the swan song of a gaudy, hysterical era in Flatbush if Terry were chosen. The first crack in the gaudy veneer came with the hiring of the sedate, unspectacular Branch Rickey to replace the loud, temperamental, unpredictable Larry MacPhail.

Rickey lost little time in chipping away at the old order, and before the summer was over he had disposed of such Dodger darlings as Dolph Camilli, Joe Medwick and Johnny Allen.

A few of the old heroes remain, such as Mickey Owen, Dixie Walker, Whit Wyatt, Billy Herman, and Arky Vaughan, but the one big link between the president and that rag-to-riches era is Leo Durocher, who has come to be as much a part of Ebbets field as second base.

If Terry were hired to replace Durocher the astounding change in the Brooklyn setup would be obvious. Rickey and Terry, two stern, capable but subdued executives in place of MacPhail and Durocher, probably no less capable but a couple of roaring, chip-on-the-shoulder gents who had become something of a symbol of baseball as it is played along the Gowans, as they say. The contrast would be astonishing.

eleven, to forty-one yards on the ground. The net gain of the Purple Panther running attack was only six yards.

The Allegany High Campers and the LaSalle Explorers will take the field tomorrow, the Campers meeting Hagerstown in their CVAL lid-lifter in the Hub City tomorrow afternoon, and the Explorers tangling with Johnny Long's Bullis school outfit, of Silver Spring, Md., tomorrow night at the Fort Hill stadium.

Allegany will be opening its CVAL defense and will be striving for its third victory in four starts. The contest will mark the start of the 1943 season for Hagerstown.

LaSalle, which lost by one point to Fort Hill last week after surprising Massanutten Military Academy 13-0, faces a tough assignment in the big Bullis school eleven, which will outweigh the Blue and Gold by nearly twenty pounds a player.

Carolyn Plans Changes

Coach Phil Carolyn will make three changes in LaSalle's starting array. In the backfield, Robert Daugherty will substitute for Clay "Red" Ingram at left halfback. Bob Mattingly was being groomed for the spot but suffered injuries to both ankles during a scrimmage session this week.

On the line, Eddie Mallon will replace Normas Geatz at center with Geatz moving to right end in place of Harry Ways. Carolyn indicated that both Ingram and Tommy Geatz, the latter still nursing a knee injury, may see some service. Norman Geatz and Quarterback Joe Carter have been named co-captains for the contest.

Army Star Who Hasn't Played Re-Injures Knee

Doug Kenna Will Be Lost to Cadet Eleven until Navy Game

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Doug Kenna, one of the most discussed backs in the east this year although he hasn't played a minute, has re-injured his knee and will be lost to the Army eleven until the Navy game, Joe Cahill, of the United States Military Academy athletic department said today.

Cahill, here for Saturday's game between Army and Columbia, said Lt. Col. Earl Blaik took the blankest off Kenna in last night's practice and on the first play the star back was spilled by a scrub end. He was unable to rise but later walked off the field under his own power.

It was Kenna's presence on the Cadet grid roster that helped the Army coaches decide to switch to the "T"-formation. He starred in the brief spring practices after being hobbled by the same knee most of last season and escaped further hurts until a few days before the opening game with Villanova this fall.

That injury, diagnosed as a severed nerve in the knee, apparently was healed and he was ready to take his place in the lineup for the remainder of the season when felled again.

Kenna, a sophomore from Jackson, Miss., was an exceptional punter and was described by Blaik as the best back to report for football at the Point since the appearance of the late Red Cagle. His speed was so great that at the picture festivities this

ANCHOR TO WINDWARD

WHEN YOU have a fine fit with your partner's suit, it is like an anchor to windward, rendering relatively safe a bid of another suit, even though it be a weak four-carder. If you get into temporary trouble by it, and are doubled, you can always flee into your partner's declaration. That is the negative side of it, the one which protects you from loss. But the positive side, what you stand to gain, is terrific if your partner's suit is a minor and your four-carder is a major. In case he is sound, and not prone to support you with just three cards if one has a pretty picture on it, any fit shown by him for the major is likely to be between a safe suit in which you may make a game try.

General Rainfall Soaks Allegany, Garrett Counties

Ends Forest Fire Hazard for Present; Flood Occurred Year Ago

A general soaking rain that amounted to almost three-quarters of an inch fell in Allegany and Garrett counties yesterday to bring the first relief from a drought termed by some sources as worse than the record dry season of 1930.

The rain came on the day preceding the October flood of a year ago and put an end, for the time being at least, a series of forest and woods fires that have been prevailing in this section of the state.

State Forester Joseph F. Kaylor and District Forester William J. Johnson, in Oakland, said last night that "things are quiet" where yesterday a series of forest fires burned over an estimated 1,000 acres of timberland and threatened four small communities in the vicinity of Backbone mountain.

Need More Rain

The rains, Johnson said, were "quite a help," and he added that all of the fires are out although there "may be a little smoldering."

Kaylor said the rain yesterday removes the fire danger for the present, but added that "we need from three to four inches to really remove the hazard." The rain, he continued is the "type that's soaking in and that's what we need. We're soaking in as it comes down."

There is a ten inch deficiency in rainfall this year, Kaylor reminded, adding that if heavy rainfall were not forthcoming soon forest areas might have to be closed to hunters and trespassers to prevent further fires.

Flames Wednesday broke out along a seven mile front on Backbone mountain and approximately 200 miners from Vindex, pulp and paper company employees, state and county road crews and foresters were summoned to combat the flames. Most of the volunteers were released yesterday, however when the rains soaked the woodlands.

The flames swept within a few hundred feet of the mining town of Vindex, Cecil Ramsey, Garrett county forest superintendent reported, but added that there was no damage to homes.

State Troopers Help

The communities of Bloomington, Mt. Zion and Barnum, W. Va., near the state line also were endangered by the flames before they were brought under control.

Kaylor last night was high in his praise of state policemen who helped co-ordinate activities and who are investigating the possibility that the fires were of incendiary origin.

The rain locally amounted to 87 inches but a steady mist late last night indicated that the precipitation would continue today. It was generally agreed that several more inches of rain are needed to alleviate the critical water shortage in this county and also in nearby Garrett county.

Water supplies are low in many sections and residents have been forced to carry water to their homes both for drinking and washing when wells went dry.

James A. Shriver, postmaster, recalled that although the season this year is quite dry, yesterday and October 14, 1942, were quite similar.

Water on Mechanic Street

His diary revealed there was a steady rain all day a year ago yesterday and that it continued through the night until water flooded down Mechanic street at 11 a.m. on October 15, a year ago today.

At the post office, custodians moved everything from the basement finishing their task at noon and that scene was repeated in many business houses and homes along the route threatened by the high water.

Water flooded into the post office basement at 1:30 p.m. according to his diary which revealed also that mail was dispatched from the main office up to 1 p.m. but after that was sent out from Station A on Virginia avenue.

This year, in contrast, Wills creek is within a foot of its bottom, but army engineers and the local planning and zoning commission are considering plans to prevent its sometimes raging waters from again pouring down local streets and inundating the business section.

BOOK THREE MUST BE FILLED IN TO OBTAIN BOOK FOUR

Persons who apply for War Ramon Book 4 in Allegany county schools October 28, 29 and 30 must present properly filled in copies of Book 3 for each person named on the Book 4 application blank.

Karl W. Radcliffe, chief clerk of the Allegany County Ration Board announced yesterday.

Most of the books issued have only the names of the registrant on the front cover.

Other information that must be filled in is the owner's address, age, sex, weight, height and occupation. The book should also be signed, Radcliffe said. Persons should not fill in the section reserved for board action.

Distribution of Book 4 will be made in the Allegany county schools October 28, 29 and 30 according to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools. Schools will close at 12:30 p.m. on Thursday and Friday of the registration days.

Low Interest Rate For Land Bank Loans Will Continue

Thousands of land bank borrowers in Maryland are assured of a continuance of low interest rates on long-term mortgage loans by action of the board of directors of the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, H. D. Vaughan the president, has announced.

At the same time, Vaughan announced that similar action had been taken by the other eleven banks in the land bank system throughout the nation which will save the federal treasury approximately $20,000,000 in the next fiscal year.

The action of the banks will substitute a four per cent interest rate for high rates of ninety-eight per cent of the loans closed by the land banks prior to June 24, 1925.

Vaughan's statement continued, Land bank loans in this section are handled through the Allegany County National Farm Loan Association.

The November call for Board 3 was reported to be about average.

No fathers will be included in the call.

Smith, Price Panel Head, Asks Aid In Pledge Week

American Legion Commander Succeeds Arch B. Miller as Chairman

On the last day set for mailing of Christmas packages for army personnel overseas, James C. Shriver, postmaster, announced that he had been advised by the War department that the post office may accept Christmas parcels for army personnel leaving this country for overseas duty shortly before or after October 16, up to and including December 10.

Persons who wish to mail packages to soldiers who have recently left this country or will leave soon, may mail Christmas packages upon presentation of a change of address notification from the service man, or other notice or communication. Any one individual may mail only one parcel to the soldier, however.

Employees of the local post office estimated last evening that approximately 2,360 Christmas parcels were mailed in this city yesterday. Fifty-four bags averaging twenty parcels to the bag were mailed at the post office and fourteen bags were received at station A in South Cumberland.

A volume of mailing was such that both parcel post windows were open all afternoon and part of the morning. Although the waiting line was not long, it was constant and employees said there was no break at all in the routine of handling the parcels.

Smith was named chairman of the price panel by Leo H. McCormick, district director of OPA, on the recommendation of Daniel F. McMullen, chairman of the local war price and rationing board. He succumbed to the bag to the soldier, however.
